

AP Seminar: English 10

Christopher DeLuca

Christopher DeLuca is an AP Capstone teacher at B.M.C. Durfee High School, an urban school of approximately 2500 students in Fall River, Massachusetts. He has been teaching AP Seminar for the past eight (8) years; he also teaches AP Research. Chris is a Table Leader for the AP Seminar reading, a consultant for the College Board, and part of the English 10: AP Seminar Teaching and Learning team. He and his colleagues were awarded Outstanding Capstone Program - New England in 2022 as well as an AP Access Award. Chris has also presented at the AP Annual Conference in 2023. He received his B.A. in Theatre & English Literature and his M.S.Ed in Inclusive Adolescent Education from Nazareth University of Rochester, NY.

Description

Created for prospective teachers and curriculum leaders interested in offering AP Seminar as an English course, the English 10: AP Seminar Experience Workshop is a pre-adoption professional learning opportunity that introduces participants to the design and pedagogy of AP Seminar. Topics include: AP Seminar's unique assessment format, opportunities for teacher and student choice, and ways to scaffold content and build skills. Participants will get to experience an AP Seminar lesson first-hand and time will be provided to address individual questions and needs.
